NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF CHILD CARE PROFESSIONALS SELECTS BRIAN K. CROWE AS EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

AUSTIN, Texas – September 11, 2009 – The Board of Directors for the National Association of Child Care Professionals (NACCP) is pleased to announce Brian K. Crowe as the association's new Executive Director.

Brian Crowe brings over 19 years of professional international and domestic experience within the nonprofit sector specializing in organizational development and management, communications, fundraising, marketing, database development and implementation, volunteer management, programs and initiatives, research, grant-writing, and networking. Brian has worked extensively with organizations, individuals and groups, providing resources and expertise to achieve desired outcomes.

Robin Stephenson, President of NACCP says, "The Board of Directors for NACCP is pleased to welcome Mr. Brian Crowe as the new Executive Director of NACCP. Brian joins NACCP with an experienced background in directing not-for-profit organizations and is highly recommended by each of his references. We are excited about the opportunity to work with him and the opportunities in store for NACCP."

NACCP's new Executive Director, Brian Crowe, says, "For over 25 years NACCP has been pivotal in strengthening the credibility of early care and education industry leaders through membership services and benefits. I am excited to actively participate in the important role the National Association of Child Care Professionals provides for leaders and emerging professionals in the early childhood field. As NACCP's new Executive Director, I enthusiastically embrace the opportunities presented through collaborative effort and look forward to providing the highest quality services and benefits for our members. Our standards will continue to set the pace in early care and education."

About the National Association of Child Care Professionals
